AROUND THE SOUND COMMUNITY BAND HISTORY

The genesis of ATSB was Shorecrest High School senior Kirstin Klepp who, as her senior project, started an adult beginning band. The original group was called The Second Chance Band and had its first concert on April 5, 1999. When the senior project was concluded, the band members continued on under the direction of John Law, a music teacher at Shorecrest High School and Kirstin's mentor. ATSB was founded in late 1999 as Community Bands Northwest. John Law passed the baton to director Mike Irons, a middle school music teacher, late in 2002. Shorecrest High School science teacher, Vince Santo Pietro, was the band's coordinator from 1999 until spring of 2002 when a board of directors was formed. The organization reached a critical milestone in 2003 when it incorporated as a non-profit organization. In 2004, the name was officially changed to the Around The Sound Community Band.

In early 2008, the baton was passed to Michael Alstad, executive director of Music Center of the Northwest. Mr. Alstad served as director until summer of 2018. Under his leadership, the band grew to 70 members, began giving formal concerts, and formed a partnership with Music Center of the Northwest. In 2013, ATSB became an international band and performed at the Ladner Band Festival in British Columbia, Canada. In 2015, the band hired Anita Kumar, a music doctoral student at University of Washington, as its first assistant director. Ms. Kumar served as assistant director until Summer 2018.

In the Fall of 2018, the directorship was passed to Tyson Sterne, band and orchestra teacher at McClure Middle School in Seattle. Tyson has also performed with several brass ensembles, as well as the 234th Army Reserve Band.

Since 1999, the ATSB has maintained a stable core of players. Staying true to our beginnings, we continue to welcome musicians at any level of playing ability. The group practices once a week to hone its skills and prepare for concerts. ATSB performs at public concerts, community events, band festivals, and other venues. The ATSB performs a wide range of concert band, marching, pop, show themes, and other types of music.

MANY THANKS TO OUR DIRECTORS

Each one of you led us, taught us, encouraged us, stretched us, and had confidence in us (even when we did not have it ourselves). Without you, we would not be where and what we are today, a community that enjoys making music together and sharing this joy with others.

We are deeply grateful.
